Reading

9 Read the text about Clay Jones. Answer T (true) or F (false).

Clay Jones is a naturalist from the United States. A few years ago, he moved to Alaska because he wanted to study the animals there. One day he found two very young bears in a forest. They were sad because they couldn't find their mother. Clay waited for the mother but she never arrived. He decided to take the two young bears with him: it was very dangerous for them to be alone in the forest.

It took Clay five hours to drive back to his house. One of the bears died on the journey but the other one was OK, but very hungry. Clay started to feed him milk, honey, fruit and fish and he finally got better. Now, five years later, the bear is still living with Clay and he is like one of his family. The bear, called Rufus, enjoys swimming in Clay's pool and he always sits at the table at special meals, such at Christmas.

Rufus doesn't live in his natural habitat, but he has a very happy life!
