Andy's Blog

Using a computer

All of my friends say that I am good with computers so in today's blog I am going to give you some advice about how to use them to help you with your schoolwork and improve your social life.

When you use a computer for schoolwork always remember to save your work every five minutes – not just on your pen drive but online as well. You can use a cloud to do this or attach your work as a document to an email.

Never open an attachment from an email if you don't recognise the email address or know the person who sent it to you – it might be a virus!

Another good idea is to change your password every few weeks so that it is more difficult for hackers to access your email or social media accounts. Don't use passwords that are easy to guess like your name or your birthday – try to use both numbers and letters and they should be at least 8 digits long.

I like to go online every day to post messages and upload photos. Always remember that other people can see this content. Think carefully before you upload anything – is this going to make you look friendly, intelligent and funny or just rude? Imagine how terrible it must be to read something bad about yourself online!

When there is a problem with your computer, don't get angry. Stay calm and ask for help if you need it. You can usually fix most problems quickly and easily if you get the right advice. There are also useful websites with information about computer problems you can find online.

Finally, we use our computers to make new friends and talk to the ones we already have. The computer is a useful device but don't forget to see your friends in person too! Meeting real friends is more fun than talking to virtual ones!

- 1 Why is Andy writing about computers in his blog?

- 2 How can you save your work?

- 3 What shouldn't you do with an email from somebody you don't know?

- 4 How often should you change your password?

- 5 What should your password include?

- 6 How often does Andy go online?

- 7 What does he do online?

- 8 What should you think about before you post messages and photos online?

- 9 Where can you find advice about computer problems?

- 10 What is the best way to speak to your friends?

11 Read part of an email you receive from an English-speaking friend.

I've just started a new school and it's great. I have made lots of new friends and have joined the school basketball team. Everyone's a lot friendlier here. Tell me about your school. What's your favourite subject? Are you a member of any clubs or teams there? Have you met any cool people?

Now write an email to your friend (100 – 120 words).
