Reading

9 Read the article about a special type of race. Choose the correct option: A, B or C to complete each gap.

The Jungle Ultra

For most of us, the Amazon rainforest would probably be one of the most challenging environments on Earth to survive in. The humidity [1]_____ incredible, with levels reaching almost 100%. If you're not used [2]_____ it, you need to drink several litres of water a day because you're sweating all the time. But that's not the only serious problem. The jungle is full of dangerous animals, from poisonous insects and snakes to big cats like jaguars. [3]_____, it might not seem like the best place in the world to organise a race. But this is exactly what happens in the Jungle Ultra event [4]_____ is held in Peru ...

The Jungle Ultra takes place over five days and competitors cover a distance of 250 kilometres [5]_____ they eventually finish. That's the equivalent of running more than a marathon every day! The race starts at an altitude of over 3,000 metres and the first thing the runners do is to descend until they penetrate the dense jungle. Part of the 'fun' of this [6]_____ event includes crossing many rivers, a 1,000 metre climb, running over rocks and through mud and ants that bite! If the race wasn't hard enough, competitors [7]_____ also bring and carry all their own stuff for the five days: food, water, sleeping bag, hammock, medicine and a good knife!

Anyone can take part in the race, [8]_____ you obviously need to be in very good condition. In fact, the organisers [9]_____ competitors that if they can't run a marathon comfortably, they shouldn't think of applying. But perhaps more important than being physically fit, you'll need to be mentally tough, too, [10]_____ you're bound to find yourself in situations that test you to the limit. In fact, for most people, the goal isn't to win – it's to finish!
