One of the most interesting places in the world is the rainforest. The largest rainforests are in the African Congo, the Amazon in South America, and in Asia.

The rainforest of the African Congo crosses six countries: Cameroon, Central African Republic, Democratic Republic of the Congo, Republic of the Congo, Equatorial Guinea and Gabon. There are 400 other species of mammals, 1,000 species of birds and 700 species of fish. This rainforest is the home of forest elephants, chimpanzees, bonobos and mountain gorillas.

People think mountain gorillas are big and dangerous animals and they like eating people but that's not true. They're shy and their food includes a variety of plants, insects and worms. They live in small groups. At night, many gorillas sleep in trees, making beds of branches. Bigger gorillas may sleep on the ground and babies sleep with their mothers.
