Reading

9 Read the article about a special type of race. Complete the text writing one word in each gap.

The Jungle Ultra

For most of us, the Amazon rainforest would probably be one of the [1]_____ challenging environments on Earth to survive in. The humidity is incredible, with levels reaching almost 100%. If you're not [2]_____ to it, you need to drink several litres of water a day because you're sweating all the time. But that's not the only serious problem. The jungle is full of dangerous animals, from poisonous insects and snakes to big cats like jaguars. [3]_____ , it might not seem like the best place in the world to organise a race. But this is exactly what happens in the Jungle Ultra event [4]_____ is held in Peru …

The Jungle Ultra takes place over five days and competitors cover a distance of 250 kilometres before they eventually [5]_____ . That's the equivalent of running more than a marathon every day! The race starts at an altitude of over 3,000 metres and the first thing the runners do is to descend until [6]_____ penetrate the dense jungle. Part of the 'fun' of this action-packed event includes: crossing many rivers, a 1,000 metre climb, running over rocks and through mud, and ants that bite! If the race wasn't hard enough, competitors must [7]_____ bring and carry all their own stuff for the five days: food, water, sleeping bag, hammock, medicine and a good knife!

Anyone can take part in the race, although you obviously need to be in very good condition. In fact, the organisers warn competitors that [8]_____ they can't run a marathon comfortably, they shouldn't think of applying. But perhaps more important than being physically fit, you'll need to be mentally tough, too, [9]_____ you're bound to find yourself in situations that test you to the limit. In fact, for most people, the goal [10]_____ to win – it's to finish!
